RICN – Information to share with stakeholders

Work on the revitalization of the Infection Prevention and Control Core Competency Education program has begun. The first step in this process is an evaluation that is being carried out by Research Strategy Group (RSG) on behalf of Ontario Agency for Health Protection and Promotion.

RSG will be sending out a survey to many of the RICN stakeholders starting the week of July 26th. The survey, which will be distributed by mail and electronically, will focus on how the Core Competencies were used within healthcare settings and what changes are needed. When you receive the survey please take some time and respond to it. The feedback you provide will be very important in moving forward with this important initiative.

In August, RSG will also be doing further surveys with frontline healthcare providers to look at the usability of the modules and also hear what they liked and found challenging about using these. There will be an opportunity for some of you to be involved in this second round. Let us know if you're interested.
